UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF GEORGIA
ATLANTA DIVISION

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION, Plaintiff, v. FLEETCOR TECHNOLOGIES, INC., et al., Defendants.	Civil Action No. 19-cv-5727-AT

JOINT STATUS REPORT

In its order entered June 10, 2026, the Court directed the parties to file by July 8, 2026, a Joint Status Report regarding the parties' settlement negotiations, including a rough timeline for when the parties think this matter will either be settled in principle or placed back on the litigation track. (Dkt. 374.) The parties accordingly report as follows:

1. The FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection ("BCP") and Defendants Corpay, Inc. (formerly known as FleetCor Technologies, Inc.) and Ronald Clarke have negotiated and executed a proposed settlement. The proposed settlement has been filed in the pending administrative action against Corpay, Inc. and Clarke and would resolve the claims in that action as well as the remaining issues in this case.

2. A multi-stage process applies when the FTC Commissioners determine whether to accept or reject a settlement of a consumer protection administrative action. It is the policy of BCP to only recommend to the FTC Commissioners those proposed settlements that it believes are highly likely to win the Commissioners' final approval.

3. As an initial step, BCP recommends to the FTC Commissioners that they vote to accept the proposed settlement for public comment. The time period required for the Commissioners to consider and vote on whether to accept a proposed settlement for public comment is normally several weeks.

4. If accepted for public comment by the Commissioners, the proposed settlement is placed on the public record for a 30-day public comment period.

5. At the end of the 30-day period, the FTC Commissioners will again review the proposed settlement and the comments received, and will decide whether to withdraw from the proposed settlement and take appropriate action or instead make the proposed settlement final through a Decision and Order. The Commission will also respond in writing to the comments received. The time required for the Commission to respond to the comments received and determine whether to withdraw from the proposed settlement or make it final is typically at least two months from the end of the 30-day comment period.

6. In light of these circumstances, the parties propose to next update the Court by the earlier of either the conclusion of this process—whether that conclusion is the acceptance or rejection of the Commission of the proposed settlement—or December 8, 2026.
